SECRETARY LAMAR is preparing to carr, out the law which gives the Indians land in severalty. One of the curious features connected with this resolution is that the Secretary should send for a gentleman who resides in Massachusetts to advise with on the subject. There are not many Indians in the old Bay State, and its inhabitants are not supposed to be very conversant with the babits or desires of the western nomads.

If, however, the judgment of the NATIONAL REPUBLICAN IS to settle the matter in controversy, it will enswer the question. It is the business of the secretary (in this case) to keep his books in such condition as to at all times show how the account of each member of the association stands. The failure of the secretary to attend properly to his duties should not work damage to one of the mementitled to. "A" was entitled to what he

The people of the German empire, sne of the greatest military powers of the world, are celebrating this year the jubilee of their emperor, who has attained his 90th year. The queen of Great Britain and the impress of India has been fifty years upon the throne, and the inhabitants of this vast empire-whose drum beat is heard round the world and on whose possessions the sun never sets-are everywhere rejoicing over this event. There is another jubilee about which but little has been said in the news papers which occurs this year. On the banks of the Tiber, never going outside of the walls of the palace he inhabits, there lives an old man, who in 1837 was consecrated to the service of God, devoting himself to a life of poverty and, perhaps, privation. His jubilee year has come, and finds over two hundred millions of the Christian inhabitants of the world looking to the once humble priest as the earthly vicar of Christ. A voluntary prisone this man controls the religious sentiment of over one-half the believers in the Christian God, and, without temporal power, he has proven himself one of the ablest men of the times, and his jubilee is that of a prince with a greater army than that of the German kaiser and a more extended empire than that of the English queen.

New York city aspires to and probably will become the commercial metropolis of the world, and, as a means to that end, it has now under consideration the following projects : (1st) A steam railroad (surface or elevated) along the water front on both rivers for the handy and economic movement of merchandise to and from the wharves, connecting with the trunk rail-road depots, and also, where practical, with the large and now rapidly multiplying public and private warehouses in the great commercial and manufacturing districts; (2d) another freight railroad on the Brooklyn river front, likewise to facilitate the transfer of goods to and from warehouses and vessels there, so as to supersede the present slow and costly service of the truckmen; (8d) a tunnel from or about Corlears Hook, say to the foot of Grand street, Williamsburg, providing the necessary connections in order to unify the railroad system on both sides of the river; (4th) the Hudson river submarine tunnel, to anable the great trunk roads which have their present termini at Jersey City, Hoboken, and Weehawken to obtain access to the territory of Manhattan Island direct, and thus save the cost, loss of time, and incon venience incident to and inseparable from the present ferry system, especially in the winter season, when navigation is impeded by ice: (5th) a series of warehouses on the Jersey shore, from Communipaw to Bergen Point, to connect there either by bridge or tunnel with the Staten Island system, thus roylding unlimited storage and warehouse facilities for many miles along the Jersey shore; (6th) a tunnel under the Narrows to provide the Staten Island railroads connec tion with the Long Island system, and thus complete a grand circuit of terminal facili-ties which would in all probability be ample for all the commercial requirements of the port for centuries to come.

MR. CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW last Sunday made a speech to the Brotherhood of Loco motive Firemen, which contains a wonderful amount of truth and common sense

Looking back upon a life of nearly fifty years I remember those who started with me All of those who were sober and industriou and saved their money now own their own households; but every one of those who drank is dead. If there is one place in the world where drinking cannot be permitted it is on a rallway. A man who was employed by me was discharged for drinking. He had hold inany promisent positions. Had been a super-visor of his town, a senator, and a member of the assembly, and his friends protested against his being thrown out of employment after having had an honorable career. I told them that the engineer and firemen had a right to believe that the station agent knew what he was doing; that the telegraph opera-tor was sober, and sent the proper dispatches; that the Keper of the drawbridges observed the proper signals; that the watchmen were at heir posts, and that the conductor had correct their posts, and that the conductor had correct orders. If either one was drunk, murder would be committed, and I was not going to employ a men who might be a party to it, although mintentionally. [Applause.]

Now capital organizes in these days for the simple reason that a road like the New York Central could not be owned by one man. The millionaire puts in his half million, the capitalist his $200,000, the farmer and mechanic their hundreds, and the widows their nites. To-gether they form this monatrous monopoly. It is simply a co-operative society, and you and samply a co-operative society, and you and lare simply the employees. The road will earn 984,000,000 this year. Thirty-four million-taken out of the peakets of the people and put into those of these robbers! Now, out of that amount twelve millions go for wages of the employes. Ten and a half go for oil, for coal, for lumber, and spikes; eight for interest. That leaves three and one-half millions for the stockholders. That makes the stockholders bloated capitalists, but I don't know as any of them has busted yet. Blatant agitators con-demnthe railroads and their stockholders as thieves and robbers. They don't know what they are talking about, and I don't want any-thing to do with them. [Loud applause.]

SIR GEORGE TREVELYAN'S speech in London Monday night must have the effect of throwing the liberal unionist ranks into more or less disorder. Mr. Trevelyan is unwavering in opposition to coercion, but assumes to speak authoritatively for the liberal party in saying that it so much desires Lord Hartington's return that it would pay any honorable price to reclaim him and his associates. Notwithstanding the mass of liberal unionists have steadily voted with the ministerial forces in parliament thus far, it may be that coercio will after all kill the coalition.

CONSUL GENERAL TO PARIS. Maj. J. L. Rathbone, of California, Get-the Appointment. The President yesterday appointed Maj. J. L. Rathbone, of California, to be consul general of the United States at Paris. Maj. Rathbone was born in Albany, N. Y., of which city his father was mayor. He was educated at West Point, and served for several years on the staff of Maj. Gen. Schofield. After resigning from the army, lifteen years ago, he located in California, where he became one of the leading citizens of the Goldon state. He has been engaged in agriculture, mining, and stock ratising. He is president of the Blood Horse Association of California—an association made up of the leading citizens of the Pacific coast. He is also director of the Union Club, of San Francisco, and is an honorary member of the Union Club, of New York city. Maj. Rathbone's brother was in the theater box with President Lincoln when he was assassinated, and received a wound from Booth's dirk which nearly cost him his life. The major is widely known here, and his appointment is very gratifying to his numerous friends. The President yesterday appointed Maj. J. L.

Interstate Commerce Law.

EDITOR NATIONAL REPUBLICAN: Your edi-torial in this morning's issue on Senator Reagan's letter on the interstate commerce law is timely and to the point.

Why should Senator Reagan undertake to interpret section 4 of that act—or, for that matter, any other section—as it was "licked into shape" in conference? He was not present when a final agreement was reached, having left the city on the 7th of January with indefinite leave of absence, the report being submitted on the 15th of January by Mr. Grisp, of Georgia, whose interpretation of section 4 is radically different from that of Mr. Reagan's. In reply to an inquiry from Mr. Hepburn. of lowa, as to his interpretation of the provise authorizing a suspension of the fourth section, Mr. Crisp said:

"That exception, or authority to suspend the rules, was granted by the committee and put in upon the idea that there might be conceivable cases were injury would result, and hence we would give power to the commission to relieve them."

That is a source contradiction of Mr. Reagant in the section of the section of the section. w is timely and to the point.

wound give Journel of them."

That is a square contradiction of Mr. Reagan's assertion that "there are no circumstances or cases which will justify it in suspending that section."

Mr. Crisp further stated that but for the provise there would have been no agreement Mr. Crisp further stated that but for the proviso there would have been no agreement by the conference committee, and it may be added now by either house. The almost universal opinion of leading members of the House of Herrasentatives expressed at the time was, that it was the "saving clause" which would justify them is voting for the adoption of the conference report, and it is perfectly safe to say that but for that provise the report would have been rejected in both houses. It is equally safe to say that of the 101 members who voted for its adoption full two-thirds did so under a sort of "political compulsion," believing and expecting that the commission would exercise the authority conferred in said provise to mitigate the hardships and incutified of the full members would be considered in said provise to mitigate the hardships and incutified of other provisions of the bill. So eres of members woted for the adoption of the report—as a witty. Bemocratic nember put it—"with gritted teeth," and then "went into the cloakrooms and kicked themselves for doing it. Without taking anything are a prophet.

Without risking anything as a prophet. I as great haste to repeal or amend the section as the forty-third Congress did to repeal the

The Virginia Debt. The Virginia Debt.

EDITOR NATIONAL REPUBLICAN; Your editorial of this morning in relation to the English holders of Virginia bonds is undoubtedly a correct foreshadowing of the position about to be assumed by Sir Edward Thornton as agont of such holders. Sir Edward is a diplomatist, not a financier, and his appearance in this business is a sufficient intimation that the English creditors of Virginia reisy upon international negotiations for the utilimate settlement of their claims. It is best for the people of the United States to know the truth as regards the national aspects of the Virginia debt question. The National Republican is not straid to utter the truth. It has stood by the Old Dominion manifully in the past, and will not flinch in the finiture. Ope of the truths you will have to problaim for some time to come is that that the government of the United States made litself responsible for the autonomy of that state—responsible by the principles of international law and in equity. As a northern man, having no interest in Virginia who earing only that the right shall provail. I have held for years past the views which you say will be advanced by Sir Edward Thornton. The English bondholders, backed by their government, will look to the United States government, having no nower to compel states to nay debts, will have no other recourse than the sense of instice inherent in the minds of the people of the two Virginias. This may be very unpopular, but its right, and the truth has a wonderful capacity for taking care of litest. C. H. A. WASHINOTON, May 17, 1887. EDITOR NATIONAL REPUBLICAN: Your edit Killing of Capt. Crawford. Explanations have been received from the Mexican government regarding the killing of Capt, Crawford, They say that the band which did the shooting was organized by land owners to restrain and resist horse thieves; that they did not know that Crawford and his men were Americans, and that many of the Indian which accompanied the troops were reoganized as notorious horse thieves.

There was an the National Rifles' Hall. There was an abundance of sweet childish faces and fairy-like forms. The pretty little ones looked very attractive in their variegated costumes, and most of them seemed to know it. At 8 o clock the heraid, Master Robbie Rutherford, announced to the crowd of parents and friends who lined the hall that the queen of May. Miss Lu Rec Dyer, with her retince, would appear. The grand entree followed, beaded by her majesty of May, she was attended by Miss Elma Norris and Miss Frenc Dyer as maids of honor, Miss Ste Clear, crown bearer, Masters Joe Thompson and Harvey Dyer, pages. Lady Hope was represented by Miss Adele Dyer, and Miss Flora Cook impersonated the Goddess of Liberty. The coronation of the queens followed, and then the dancing commenced. The programme opened with the "Baden-Badem" by Miss Marie Doyle and Master Robbte Dennison. A large number of lancy dances followed, in which an unusual degree of excellence was exhibited. ALBAUGH'S GRAND GUERA HOUSE.

On Monday evening next the third supplemental season will be insugurated at Arbaugh's by the Washington Opera Company in Solomon's Comic Opera "Claude Duval." This composition is just of that bright and breazy style suited to the season, and will be given with the full strength of the company, including those two orollest of comedians, Solomon and Allen, and with new and special scenery and accessories. A feature of the opera is its catchy songs and irresistibly funny dialogue of the songs may be mentioned the topical trio, "You Don't Say," sung by Solemon, Alien, and Broderick: a Patter Song, by Allen, "The Language of Flower," by Carlotta Pinner; the romanza, "The Kiss of Yestoriday," by Broderick. The company have won golden opinions from the press of Baltimore during the present week. Prices for the summer season will be held at the old figures, 25 cans for admission and 50 couts for reserved seats and the saic of reserved seats will be opened at the box office this morning at 9 o'clock sherp, ALBAUGH'S GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Next Monday night the Arthur Rehan's Comedy Company will present the beautiful society-military comedy entitled "The Passing Regiment," which has been well received wherever presented. ERENAN'S WASHINGTON THEATER.

The regular season of Kernan's will end with next week, but not, by any means, its entertainments. Only this: "The king is dead, long live the king!" Immediately, the summer pleasure begins. In addition to the familiar theater, the garden adjoining is to untoid its broad doors, admitting to grassy borders, a stage—scene of enchantment—and a great floored auditorium, liberally dotted with little round tables among the comfortable chairs. Everybody knows what the little round tables mean. The Vienna Ladies orchestra will breathe sweet music on the odorous air, and the duets of the Archimere Sisters complete the chairs. Patrons of the theater have free admission to the Eden without. One ticket, at the usual price, embraces both. Two exhibitions proceed simultaneously under roof, the "Night Owls"—which all Washington knows and talks about now. A large and beautiful refreshment apartment will be opened on the lower floor, and, adjacent, a fluely furnished green room, for private conversations. Kernan's enterprise presents attraction of a kind not elsewhere offered in the city, nor in the world.

HARRIE'S BLOU TERATER.

Now, after the drama, song and instrumental music are coming, to give new life and variety to the Bijou. Danels and Gale's ministrals claim next week. They were lately Barlow, Wilson and Rankin's, but, with another name, preserve the best talent of the former organization, and possess enhanced reputation. The five Pavan-las, Romeo, Louis, Victor, David and Baptiste, a great Parisian success, contribute their genius. A most amusing scene will be introduced, the "The Toboggan Slide," which not only brings down the gay and feative actors but invariably the house also. the house also.
